

Post-MSN Online Programs

The accredited Doctor of Nursing Practice prepares nurses at the highest level of practice for the current healthcare environment. DNP curriculum provides a strong scientific foundation for practice; flexibility and emphasis on evidence-based practice, leadership, and organizational analysis; and completion of a unique DNP project. Students and faculty come together twice per year on UCF's Orlando campus for Compact Intensives that foster teamwork and often include lectures by industry leaders.

Students enrolling in a UCF Online program will receive a waiver for some campus-based fees, such as Activity and Service Fee, Transportation and Access Fee, Health Fee, Athletic Fee, and Technology Fee. Consequently, UCF Online students will have reduced access to on-campus resources.

Program Descriptions

Advanced Practice DNP

UCF's online Advanced Practice DNP is designed to enhance the development of master's prepared Nurse Practitioners, Clinical Nurse Specialists, Registered Nurse Anesthetists and Nurse Midwives into clinical practice leaders. Clinical practice leaders participate at the highest level in their organizations and community, and are equipped to improve quality, outcomes and systems of healthcare.

Doctoral students in the Advanced Practice DNP track are encouraged to lead scholarly inquiry in their current practice environment. Integral components of the program will include: translating current evidence into practice; and designing, implementing and evaluating new models of care. Graduates are prepared to initiate and lead change in the clinical practice environment, with emphasis on contributing to the body of evidence being considered in the reshaping of healthcare.

Nurse Executive DNP

UCF's online Nurse Executive DNP is a dynamic and engaging academic curriculum that prepares students for executive leadership and decision-making at the highest level by examining practice innovations and outcomes. The Nurse Executive DNP track extends and enhances the knowledge, skill and performance of healthcare system leaders in a wide variety of clinical and administrative environments.

The DNP Nurse Executive track meets the unique needs and taps the talent of nurse executives through experiential learning and leadership projects in a team-centered environment. It provides enrolled executives and managers the opportunity to interact with prominent healthcare experts who address emergent and challenging issues for nurse leaders, and encourages networking with colleagues across local, state and national healthcare and policy organizations.
